Re: Report Code Q2 2023 14.2 – IslandWood 2023 Grant Report

Dear Ms. Sheldon and the entire community of the Tulalip Tribes Charitable Contributions Fund,

On behalf of IslandWood I am pleased to write to you today to report on work delivered over the term of your generous 2023 grant of [REDACTED], which was invested in our exceptional Urban School Programs (USP) to help students from Snohomish County connect their classroom learning with their communities. IslandWood works on the premise that outdoor environmental education has the power to transform the way that youth understand and engage with their community. Extending student learning beyond a classroom and into local ecosystems provides opportunities for increasing students’ sense of connection to their social and environmental community. It also increases the likelihood that they will see themselves as actors in building more resilient communities.

We are happy to report the following about USP delivery during the term of this grant (Sept – December 2023):

- Brightwater School Day Programs: School Day Programs, delivered at the Brightwater Education Center, Woodinville, WA, are provided at no cost to schools and free transportation is available for schools with >35% low-income students:

- Teacher Professional Development for ClimeTime teacher trainings:

- IslandWood educators taught instructional strategies and climate and community data to help teachers connect to the interests and identities of students and support understanding of the impacts of climate change.
- 6 elementary teachers attended TPD from Snohomish County in fall 2023, expanded to classes taught, they each would teach an average class size of 23 elementary students, therefore, 138 students were indirectly served.

Your grant support has contributed to this successful programming. Thank you.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions about this report. We are deeply grateful for your financial support. Please take good care.

With gratitude,
