Greetings Marilyn! Real Escape from the Sex Trade (REST) remains so grateful for the partnership that we have developed with the Tulalip Tribe this year. Your generous investment in providing pathways to freedom, safety, and hope for victims of sex trafficking and people involved in the sex trade is a tremendous encouragement and is having a significant impact in the lives of those we serve.

In an effort to share how our partnership has enabled us to provide our mission, I've attached an update of our Key Metrics. The funds from the Tulalip Tribes Charitable Contribution were expedited to cover costs associated with general operations throughout our continuum of care. If upon review this report does not meet or exceed your expectations, please let me know. We are very much open to your feedback in terms of providing accurate and helpful reporting on our activities and look forward very much to strengthening our partnership in the coming years.

Unfortunately, due to the confidential nature of our work with victims of sex trafficking, we cannot provide any photos of direct services taking place. However, I have attached a few photos of our new REST Office and Drop In Center and a few others that could be easily shared on your website.

We are really looking forward to the Raising Hands event! Thank you for believing in our vision for a community that is free from commercial sexual exploitation, and for your partnership. We couldn't do it without you.

Best,

Edward

Qualitative Milestones

In addition to quantifying our success through streamlined and timely reporting procedures, there is tremendous qualitative measurement gleaned from the stories of restoration we gather through monthly reporting and case management notes. During our last quarter, some of the qualitative milestones taking place in the lives of the young women we are serving include but are not limited to:

1. 100% participation rate for mental health counseling for those enrolled in community advocacy
2. Based on a 100% response rate to our 24-7 crisis intervention hotline, 21 additional placements into safe housing have been made
3. A young woman who has historically experienced an inability to engage in medical services due to trauma-related injuries, consulted with an online medical service and is now considering making an appointment
4. Another of the young women we are serving has enrolled in a Surgical Assistant program at a local community college

We are also closing in on a location for the Emergency Receiving Center which will provide crisis intervention and stabilization services to the most recently recovered and referred victims of sex trafficking in our community. We aim to launch this program in August of 2015!
