Marilyn Sheldon Tulalip Tribes Charitable Fund 8802 27th Avenue NE Tulalip, WA 98271-9694

Dear Ms. Sheldon:

Thank you so much for the Tulalip Tribes Charitable Fund's March 2017 grant to support Seattle Education Access's post-secondary education access programs for atrisk young people (Q4 2016 14.2, www.seattleeducationaccess.org).

With support from Tulalip Tribes Charitable Fund, in 2017 Seattle Education Access (SEA) provided opportunity through higher education access and retention to 917 young people struggling to overcome poverty and adversity in King County. We help low-income and marginalized young people succeed at completing degrees at local community colleges, technical colleges, and four-year institutions of higher education.

SEA specializes in serving young people whose educations have been interrupted by poverty, trauma, and profound adversity. We prioritize students who have experienced homelessness, single parents, immigrants, and those who did not successfully complete high school. Of the 1,798 students served from 2011-2017:

- 100% were low-income
- 51% have experienced homelessness
- 11% have been in foster care
- 21% are single parents
- 77% are people of color
- 34% are immigrants
- 75% are first in their family to attend college
- 47% are first in their family to earn a high school credential
- 15% identify as LGBTQ
- 42% male, 54% female, and 4% transgender or gender non-conforming

Accomplishments

At SEA, we are extremely proud of our students' achievements, despite incredible the barriers they face. In 2017, we expected to serve over 850 students between our programs; we served 917 young people.

 We predicted 125 students in our College Prep Program would complete a college assessment test, such as the COMPASS, ACT or SAT; 141 did so. We predicted 100 students in our College Prep Program would earn a GED or high school diploma; 78 did so.

We found many of the referrals of College Prep students from new partnerships were further away from earning a diploma, so have not yet reached that milestone.

We predicted 100 students in our College Success Program would earn a higher education degree; 57 did so. We had growth in both our College Prep Program (from 547 to 578 students) and our College Success Program (275 to 339); 140 of the College Success Program started higher education in 2017, but fewer were ready to graduate than we anticipated.

In 2017, with the help of restricted funding and contracts, SEA hired 4 FTE staff members, bringing our total FTE to 18 with 7 AmeriCorps tutors. Two of our FTEs will be creating capacity in fundraising and administration as the management systems used when we had 5 FTEs are not as functional with our growing staff. We hired an additional FTE in South King County as we began a new partnership with the Auburn Opportunity Project, a high school completion program partnership with Auburn School District and Green River College. SEA runs this project on a day-to-day basis. Additionally, with support from King County, we have hired a position to work with young people at King County jail's GED program to connect them to educational opportunities upon release.

As you can see, SEA is growing and thriving, thanks to our philanthropic partners like you. If you have any questions, feel free to contact our Development Director, Katy Childers, at (206) 523-3662 or katy@seattleeducationaccess.org.

Again, thank you for your support. Because of you, more students in our community facing profound adversity have the opportunity to earn a post-secondary credential, start a career, and create a better life.

Sincerely,

Anthon Smith Executive Director
