Tulalip Tribes Charitable Contributions Funded Tech Support (Q2 2022 14.2) - Seattle Jobs Initiative (SJI)

Summary

As a partner in the Workforce Youth Consortium in Snohomish County (SnoCO), Seattle Jobs Initiative (SJI) Seattle Jobs Initiative was able to take its Digital Bridge Program to the young adults in the SnoCo program. With the funding from the Tulalip Tribes Charitable Contributions Fund, SJI was able to work with consortium partners Refugee and Immigrant Services Northwest and Housing Hope to identify 15 youth that weren't otherwise able to participate in employment programming because of the digital divide. We worked with these 15 individuals to provide them with laptops and internet access, along with a class on basic digital skills. After providing the devices, these 15 individuals have been actively participating in workforce programming, along with utilizing their new devices to complete job applications, look for apartments, pay bills, and more. The Tulalip Tribes Charitable Contributions Fund has allowed these young folks to have access to programs and services while also handling personal matters because they now have tech and the skills to utilize the devices.

Statistics:
